Course Outline

Module 1: Purpose and Legal Authority for Award Terms

- Role of award terms in the federal grants lifecycle and how they establish enforceable obligations for recipients.
- Distinction between standard terms, agency-specific terms, and risk-based special conditions.
- Statutory and regulatory authority including the Federal Grant and Cooperative Agreement Act and Uniform Guidance provisions.

Module 2: Risk as the Driver of Special Conditions

- Translating pre-award risk assessments into proportionate award conditions.
- Understanding financial, programmatic, compliance, and capacity risks.
- Aligning conditions with monitoring strategies and avoiding over-conditioning.

Module 3: Designing Effective and Enforceable Special Conditions

- Core elements of a defensible special condition including purpose, justification, requirements, and exit criteria.
- Common drafting failures cited in audits and oversight reviews.
- Differences between deliverable-based conditions and control-based conditions.

Module 4: Negotiation Dynamics and Recipient Engagement

- Understanding recipient perspectives and managing negotiation discussions.
- Distinguishing negotiable implementation details from non-negotiable regulatory requirements.
- Documenting negotiation decisions to support equity and defensibility.

Module 5: Special Conditions Across Award Types

- Applying special conditions based on recipient experience and risk profile.
- Differences in conditioning decisions across grants, cooperative agreements, formula programs, and discretionary programs.
- Conditions commonly applied to procurement, reporting, indirect costs, and cash management.

Module 6: Documentation and Defensibility

- Documentation practices that support audit and Inspector General review.
- Linking special conditions to documented risk assessment results.
- Maintaining consistency across awards and avoiding hindsight bias.

Module 7: Managing, Monitoring, and Removing Special Conditions

- Monitoring compliance with special conditions and verifying implementation.
- Defining success criteria and exit conditions for removing controls.
- Escalation pathways when conditions are not met.

Module 8: Capstone Simulation – Structuring Defensible Award Conditions

- Applying risk assessment, negotiation judgment, and drafting skills in a realistic award scenario.
- Developing defensible special conditions tied to documented risk.
- Preparing award file documentation suitable for audit and oversight review.
